Dear Ms. Ann,

That is an excellent piece. Thanks for sending me the copy not only so I could see it but also for reminding me of something I should not have forgotten and did in my own writing!

I had forgotten that McCloy had succeeded in not having those railroad tracks blown up and that he had been responsible for clemency for Krupp. I think that was first reported by George Seldes in his weekly In Fact.

That was before your time.

I ~~then~~ think his successful opposition to bombing those tracks, which could be separate from bombing the camps, was reported by Kai Bird but I do not have his book.

If you can supply me with sources I can use on these two and if you can think of any other upstanding Hitlerites McCloy saved I'd like very much to know.

I can't take much time to explain now because I'm not even supposed to be out of bed. I'm to have my legs elevated while on my back. But I do want to say this to what I have written because it was McCloy who pulled the con that enabled the Warren Commission Report to state what three Members did not agree with, that Kennedy and Connally got all seven of their nonfatal wounds from a single bullet. I had a relationship with Ruseell on this.

If McCloy had not been able to pull that deception off there would not have been a report that said there had been no conspiracy and that all the shots had been fired by Oswald.

Many thanks and best wishes,

Harold Weisberg
